Short Faculty Bio:

I draw on more than thirty years of clinical experience, in a variety of settings and nineteen years of experience teaching graduate-level classes in counseling psychology. My primary specialty is group psychotherapy and I lead several groups each week. Since 1982, I have maintained a thriving private practice, with offices in Berkeley and San Rafael, also working with couples, families and individuals.

Course description:

The principal purpose of this course is for students to understand the human being as a group organism. To this end, students will gain a broad understanding of group process, development and dynamics by applying theory to practice through experiential learning. This course emphasizes the exploration of personal responses in a group setting by using several theoretical frameworks with applications of general principles to specific methods and populations. Students will learn an approach to group therapy which employs active interventions drawn from effective communication skills theory. These group therapy interventions can be used by therapists using a variety of theoretical approaches.

Program Outcomes:

Course Objectives: As a result of this course, you will be able to:

- 1) Describe the experience of group membership as the primary human experience.
- 2) Articulate ideas about group process and dynamics, group roles and group tasks.
- 3) Clearly describe how you think, feel and behave as a member of a group, and describe your patterns of interpersonal behavior and the roles you habitually assume.
- 4) Utilize strengths and confront challenges in becoming a more effective practitioner of the healing arts
- 5) Identify similarities and differences between various approaches to group counseling.
- 6) Apply group psychotherapy interventions that encourage group members to express empathy, giving clear, responsible feedback, articulate views of group process, and develop group cohesion.
- 7) Demonstrate leadership skills that include how as a group leader, you can use your authority to developing a therapeutic group culture and to activate and illuminate the here and now process of the group.
- 8) Describe the group on person, group member, group role and group-as-a-whole levels
- 9) Conduct yourself in a culturally competent manner that is sensitive to cultural differences and social issues as they arise in a group setting.
- 10) Apply general principles to specific group methods and group populations including children, adolescents, illness, death, and the aging.

Grading Criteria

Class attendance and participation is mandatory. Onsite, online, and email assignments are to be submitted by due dates by 12:00 midnight for full credit.

Grades are determined by:

- 1) Class Journal 20%
- 2) Class Application Paper including self-evaluation: 50%
- 3) Onsite and online participation including self-evaluation: 30%

Class Journal

Write weekly notes about your experience of class and post/email them to the class. This may include observations, your responses and reactions, analyses, satisfactions, dissatisfactions, surprises, learning, goals, next steps, leader interventions, or any other form of your choice.

Class Application Paper

The focus of the Class Application Paper is a self-exploration and self-analysis where you apply theory to yourself. It requires that you demonstrate your capacity to 1) observe and recollect the sequencing of events in a particular interaction from onsite class that includes both the context and your internal responses/reactions and 2) apply theory to analyze and synthesize new learning from the interaction. This is a 5 page, double-spaced, typed paper applying each of the 3 central themes presented in class to 1 (or at most 2) activities or interactions. Include the following:

- 1) Introduction to let reader know what will follow,
- 2) Facts (details of what took place or dialogue),
- 3) Exploration of your reactions and responses (triggers, thoughts sensations, feelings, impulses, actions), demonstrating your capacity to witness and discern distinctions between thoughts and feelings as well as correlation and causation.
- 4) Analysis of your reactions and responses (application of 3 central themes), and
- 5) Reflections of implications for your work with clients.
- 6) Completed self-evaluation of your Class Application Paper using the criteria that follow.

Class Application Paper is DUE the last day of class.

Library

All resources in Argosy University’s online collection are available through the Internet. The campus librarian will provide students with links, user IDs, and passwords.

Library Resources: Argosy University’s core online collection features nearly 21,000 full-text journals and 23,000 electronic books and other content covering all academic subject areas including Business & Economics, Career & General Education, Computers, Engineering & Applied Science, Humanities, Science, Medicine & Allied Health, and Social & Behavior Sciences. Many titles are directly accessible through the Online Public Access Catalog at <http://library.argosyu.edu>. Detailed descriptions of online resources are located at <http://library.argosyu.edu/misc/onlinedblist.html>.

In addition to online resources, Argosy University’s onsite collections contain a wealth of subject-specific research materials searchable in the Online Public Access Catalog. Catalog searching is easily limited to individual campus collections. Alternatively, students can search combined collections of all Argosy University Libraries. Students are encouraged to seek research and reference assistance from campus librarians.

Information Literacy: Argosy University’s Information Literacy Tutorial was developed to teach students fundamental and transferable research skills. The tutorial consists of five modules where students learn to select sources appropriate for academic-level research, search periodical indexes and search engines, and evaluate and cite information. In the tutorial, students study concepts and practice them through interactions. At the conclusion of each module, they can test their comprehension and receive immediate feedback. Each module takes less than 20 minutes to complete. Please view the tutorial at <http://library.argosyu.edu/infolit/>

Academic Policies

Academic Dishonesty/Plagiarism: In an effort to foster a spirit of honesty and integrity during the learning process, Argosy University requires that the submission of all course assignments represent the original work produced by that student. All sources must be documented through normal scholarly references/citations and all work must be submitted using the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 5th Edition (2001). Washington DC: American Psychological Association (APA) format. Please refer to Appendix A in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 5th Edition for thesis and paper format. Students are encouraged to purchase this manual (required in some courses) and become familiar with its content as well as consult the Argosy University catalog for further information regarding academic dishonesty and plagiarism.

Scholarly writing: The faculty at Argosy University is dedicated to providing a learning environment that supports scholarly and ethical writing, free from academic dishonesty and plagiarism. This includes the proper and appropriate referencing of all sources. You may be asked to submit your course assignments through “Turnitin,” (www.turnitin.com), an online resource established to help educators develop writing/research skills and detect potential cases of academic dishonesty. Turnitin compares submitted papers to billions of pages of content and provides a comparison report to your instructor. This comparison detects papers that share common information and duplicative language.

Americans with Disabilities Act Policy

It is the policy of Argosy University to make reasonable accommodations for qualified students with disabilities, in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). If a student with disabilities needs accommodations, the student must notify the Director of Student Services. Procedures for documenting student disability and the development of reasonable accommodations will be provided to the student upon request.

Students will be notified by the Director of Student Services when each request for accommodation is approved or denied in writing via a designated form. To receive accommodation in class, it is the student’s responsibility to present the form (at his or her discretion) to the instructor. In an effort to protect student privacy, the Department of Student Services will not discuss the accommodation needs of any student with instructors. Faculty may not make accommodations for individuals who have not been approved in this manner.

The Argosy University Statement Regarding Diversity

Argosy University prepares students to serve populations with diverse social, ethnic, economic, and educational experiences. Both the academic and training curricula are designed to provide an environment in which students can develop the skills and attitudes essential to working with people from a wide range of backgrounds.
